Trailblazer...

Congratulations

Mrs Tracia-Gay Kennedy-Dixon

WIGUT (Jamaica) congratulates Mrs Tracia-Gay Kennedy-Dixon, a lecturer in our Doctor of Pharmacy Programme and now the first certified nuclear pharmacist in the English-speaking Caribbean, having been certified in this specialty area by the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA).

See link below to an article in The Gleaner titled, Trendsetter Tracia-Gay - Jamaican Becomes Region's First Nuclear Pharmacist.

WIGUT Members in the International Arena

We were pleasantly surprised to see some of our current and former colleagues serving as experts on an episode of the BBC Series Who Do You Think You Are?

Four (4) of our UWI colleagues, assisted Marvin Humes, an English entertainment personality, in exploring his Jamaican ancestry.

Who Do You Think You Are? is a British genealogy documentary series that has aired on the BBC since 2004. In each episode, a celebrity traces his or her family tree. In Season 15: episode 6 aired on August 6, 2018, Marvin Humes, a former member of the boy band JLS, a disc jockey, TV presenter and radio host, was featured. Humes is the son of a Jamaican father and Anglo-Scottish mother. Humes delved into his Jamaican and his English heritage, and found exceptional stories on both sides of the family.
